

GREAT DAY AT THE ZOO

Hundreds of Youngsters
Contest the Sports, Grand Luau.

What several hundreds of youngsters would have done with themselves on Kamehameha Day were it not for the Kaimuki Zoological Gardens is a poser. Certainly such a crowd of brown and yellow, dashed liberally with white, of the juvenile population had not ever before assembled for competitive outdoor sports, especially arranged for the little men, and it had better be believed they made a day of it in good earnest.

It was exquisite enjoyment withal for the hundreds of grown folk and little girls who swarmed in the openings of the picturesque buildings overlooking the roped arena and upon the bordering grounds. The climbing of the greased pole was no doubt the most exciting contest, while the catching of the greased pig was the most comical. Some scores of lads made desperate but futile attempts to touch the beam above the ten-foot pole before Harry Decker achieved the feat, winning the prize of $5 and being swept off his feet by a whirlwind of admirers including his disappointed rivals. There is nothing more chivalrous than the real boy, and the tints of the orient and the tropics do not stain the quality.

There was a false start made by the pig, causing quite two hundred pairs of feet a wild chase through the tortuous alleys of the compound. Piggy was recaptured and placed for the start far out in the open. Yet it dashed for the alleys again and a fierce clamor surged about the pavilions for a minute. Then a shrill squealing arose as a husky young Chinese bore the animal feet up in his arms, with the shouting crowd around him, to the middle of the arena. The pig itself was the captor's prize.

All of the sports were spiritedly contested and perfectly regulated by Ed. E. Hartman, assisted by E. Buffandeau. Prizes of value, such as baseball bats, balls, etc., were given the winners.

As a matter of course the animals and birds from foreign climes drew continual attention of both old and young. There is quite a large and varied aggregation of living creatures in the compound. Everything is scrupulously clean and, with one or two exceptions, beast and fowl appear to be as comfortable as could be expected in a state of captivity. The bears growl healthily, the possum sleeps peacefully, the raccoon looks wide awake, the wild cat snarls naturally, the wallaby leaps gaily and the crow is garrulous as on his native cherry tree. Only the kangaroo seems to suffer from homesickness.

There was a grand opening, indeed, of the Hawaiian village, whose entrance is from the Zoo, yesterday. A sumptuous luau—the viands being prepared in imu upon the ground—was spread in a specially built lanai roofed with sailcloth. At the head of the banqueting apartment the ancient dances, somewhat modernized, were going on all day. Expert hula artists were employed, who appeared in brilliant costumes, and in addition to the regulation music the Kawaihau quintet club played and sang at intervals.

The village opening was very well patronized throughout. According to a close estimate, fully 2000 people entered the Zoo gate yesterday. From an early hour in the forenoon until well on in the afternoon two large trolley cars overflowing with passengers went out every half hour. The best of order prevailed in both departments of the show—the Zoo and the village—so that the few policemen detailed to the place had little to do but enjoy themselves. It may be mentioned that the village is not a mushroom congeries put up for a day, but a group of grass houses substantially constructed in real ancient Hawaiian style. There is not a nail used in the construction.

ent, searching investigation of medical science.

I understand this is the first time in history that a government has taken upon itself the effort, and appropriated a large sum of money, to investigate exclusively a single disease seeking its cause, prevention and possible cure.

Naaman, the leper king, when bidden by Elisha, the Prophet, to wash in Jordan seven times and be clean; was angered and refused because he had expected a spectacular cleansing, but later repented, washed seven times in Jordan, and was cured.

We trust our own unfortunate wards will not imitate Naaman, but patiently and perseveringly cooperate with those laboring for their good and that of their fellow sufferers throughout the world.

We have so earnestly hoped for the aid that has come to these Hawaiian Islands, now turn to the gentlemen who have accomplished the object desired, and who have secured ample provision for the scientific investigation of, and a search for, the prevention and cure of leprosy.

We have with us Dr. Wyman, Surgeon-General of the United States, whose intense and persistent interest and effort created the sentiment and plan; and the Honorable W. P. Hepburn, for twenty-four years a member of the United States House of Representatives, and one of its most powerful leaders, who forced the plan into law against all opposition.

AFTERNOON REPORT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, has formally given to President Roosevelt Russia's consent to the opening of negotiations for a treaty of peace with Japan. This means that the Russian Government is practically stung for peace, and is ready to discuss the terms through the American President.

JAPAN'S PEACE COUNCIL.

TOKIO, June 12.—The Emperor has called a peace council, to consider the negotiations proposed by Russia for termination of the war.

CZAR'S FORMAL ANSWER.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 12.—Russia's reply to the proposal of peace negotiations is en route to Washington. It is believed here that there will not be any hitch in the proceedings.

RUSSIAN CAVALRY DISLODGED.

TOKIO, June 12.—Reports from the front show that Russian cavalry has been dislodged from several towns in Manchuria.

FLOODS IN THE MISSISSIPPI.

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 12.—One farmer was drowned and seven others are missing amid a Mississippi flood in this region. The flood has caused millions of dollars damage and it is feared that there will be further loss of life.

burn, for twenty-four years a member of the United States House of Representatives, and one of its most powerful leaders, who forced the plan into law against all opposition.

Gentlemen, in expression of our appreciation, I propose in one toast the health of these two friends and joint workers in behalf of humanity. Dr. Walter Wyman and the Honorable W. P. Hepburn.

WYMAN GIVES CREDIT.

General Wyman responded in a happy vein, giving Col. Hepburn credit for what had been done in obtaining the Congressional appropriation for the federal investigation of leprosy. He said it gave him great pleasure to meet so many distinguished men of the islands. He did not think he could utilize the time better than by simply enumerating the causes leading to the action taken by Congress.

"As you all know," said he, "the bill was put through Congress by Col. Hepburn. (Applause.) In 1902 I went to Mr. Hepburn with a bill which had been carefully prepared and which made a great change in the service of which I have the honor to be at the head. This was to enlarge the scope of the service and increase its activities. Hepburn read it and said he was in favor of it and he put it through. That bill provides for an annual conference between the Surgeon-General and the representatives of the State and Territorial Boards of Health. I called for a conference. On the Committee of Leprosy, I appointed Dr. Cooper of Honolulu, chairman. Dr. Cooper made an excellent report. I wrote here saying I would do all I could to secure a scientific investigation as to the best method of effecting a cure for leprosy."

General Wyman spoke of his visit to the Leper Settlement. He was greatly surprised at the order, system and good feeling which seemed to prevail there. He was also surprised at the beauty of the surroundings, especially that part to be taken over by the Federal Government. When the title to the square mile has been approved by the Department of Justice, it will be his purpose to begin actual work to find a specific for leprosy. As early as possible, experiments will be made, records kept of the best treatments, and systematic methods of treatment begun. This will be made continuous until success crowns the efforts of the experiments. Within the last few days Dr. Wyman had been encouraged to find that his department may be able to get to work quicker than he anticipated. First must be the Department of Justice's opinion as to the title to the land, and then the plans for the buildings will have to be made, the advertisements for bids published and there will be many delays, which Uncle Sam exacts, before actual building construction commences. This is to come out of the $100,000 appropriation, but there is a $50,000 appropriation for maintenance and he said he was anxious to start to spend that money on the work. He spoke of the article in yesterday's Advertiser relative to leprosy treatments under way near Boston. He said he would get into communication with the physicians named therein, and others, and get the remedy and all remedies, and make the medicine to be used for the treatments on Molokai.

General Wyman thanked those who had contributed to making his stay pleasant. He had heard for years of the hospitality of the island people, but it becomes necessary for one to visit the islands to realize it. "If, out of these isles of the sea, will spring knowledge which will benefit all mankind—the cure of the leper—it will be one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed upon the world."

HEPBURN PATRIOTIC.

Col. Hepburn was called upon for an address and he responded eloquently, his speech being frequently punctuated by applause. He said that General Wyman had done him honor overmuch. "When you get to know Wyman as well as I do," he said, "you will recognize the fact that modesty is a great characteristic of his nature. Next to myself, he is the most modest man I know of—(laughter)—and when he attempts to give me credit for carrying out this idea, it is simply because of his kindness. I have known the doctor a long time. I have been permitted to preside over the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce for about ten years. It is the committee which has the incentive with reference to all matters pertaining to his bureau. I might say here that the General never came to us with any proposition, personal to himself, his rank or his pay, all of that he has left to others. The subjects that have engaged his attention have been for the public weal. I know something of the persistency with which he adheres to every purpose looking to the common benefit. If the doctor ever came to us with the same persistency in personal matters that he does with matters for the public I would say he would be a d—d bore. (Laughter.) When he came to me with this bill, and told me it was for the public weal, I did everything I could to get rid of the bill. That is the secret history of the measure. (Applause and laughter.)

"I am glad of the opportunity the doctor has. Everything he has done in the past dozen years I have known him has been for the public interests and has been well done. When he takes hold of a matter there is assurance of success. I anticipate that infinite good will come from this movement and that those thousand and more unfortunates on Molokai, beyond the power of description by me, for when a man loses hope, and when all the good he can think lies behind him, he is deplorable indeed, and if there is any way to lift this cloud, it will indeed be a benefit to mankind. I hope, for those thousand people, there will be a future for them and that hope will illumine them."

"I want to say to you all how grateful I am for courtesies received. Every moment I have been on this beautiful island has been a pleasurable one. I have but one single thought that gives me discomfort—my absolute inability to get along with a language that has only eleven or twelve letters in it."

"You have a beautiful city, and what pleases me most is that it is an American city. You will still find many cities in California, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Florida and Louisiana that are not as Americanized as this little city here and I am glad to know it. There is a great chance of this American nation of ours being a great people if we can only have time, and there is a great possibility ahead for these little islands. No other spot that my eye has ever rested on has more beauty than the scene from the top of your mountain behind us (Tantalus). The view is incomparable, but that landscape is no more beautiful than your climate or the spirit of Americanism."

"It seems that all Americans are intent in pushing our nation forward all the time until we take our place, not among the nations, but the first of all the world powers. That is our place in the march in the column of the great states."

"We hear a great deal said in these days of what is to be the future of the East; we hear what is said about the Yellow Peril and we hear about the open door and whether there is to be an open door in this dark continent to your westward. All eyes have turned that way. That is the goal that is to give us the richest trade."

"Are we going to submit to having any doors closed in our faces? Surely not. $5,000,000 of Americans will say 'No,' when that proposition is made, and $100,000,000 of wealth will say 'No.' Every energy and every exertion of a people that have never been thwarted will be made to keep open all these doors."

Among other speakers were Hon. W. O. Smith, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Hon. H. E. Cooper, Hon. Alexander Young, W. G. Irwin, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, Prince Kalaniana'ole, Samuel Parker, George W. Smith, Dr. W. H. Mays, C. M. Cooke, and Dr. L. E. Cofer.
